Substitute Specification

The substitute specification filed 12/13/05 has been entered into the case.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Regarding claim 1, the phrase "or the like" renders the claim(s) indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "or the like"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d). Also for claim 1, "the end section" lacks antecedent basis because the section has not be positively claimed previously. Furthermore, for claim 1, in the preamble only one leg is positively claimed; however, in the body of the claim, plural legs are stated/described. For claim 2, it is unclear whether or not the "two engagement elements" are part of the engagement elements claimed previously in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7, 11-15, 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Welsch et al (4,444,125) in view of Chirumbolo (3,478,302). Welsch teaches a stand (Fig. 8; please note that tables, chairs and stands are considered functionally equivalent structures in this application) having struts (60), four edged elements (46, 48) with tapered hollow plastic receivers (97), a top shelf (12), and legs (94). The top of the legs include recesses (96) while the receivers include projections (110). For claim 1, Welsch fails to teach helical/spiral segments/recesses of the legs and corresponding projections on the receivers. Chirumbolo teaches a connector arrangement having helical/spiral segments/recesses (36) and corresponding projections (33). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use an alternate connection means between the legs and receivers of Welsch, i.e. using the recesses and projections of Chirumbolo, instead of the recesses and projections presently used, since these connection means are functional equivalents and it would appear that either type of connection means would work equally well between the legs and receivers of Welsch. Furthermore, because the recesses of Chirumbolo have projection insertion/removal openings, the legs and receivers would be more easily assembled/disassembled.

For claim 2, Welsch in view of Chirumbolo fails to teach opposing recesses. Rather Chirumbolo teaches three recesses/projections encircling its respective member. However, it would have been an obvious design consideration to modify the number of attachment locations, i.e. using two opposed connections instead of three, depending on the desired need of the person constructing the stand; either configuration being capable of holding the members together.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-10 and 16 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
